EXHIBITOR INFORMATION

Fannie Mae

Consumer Housing Journey: Fannie Mae's Consumer Housing Journey is an evidence-based, consumer-centric framework for understanding housing barriers at each stage of a consumer's life, particularly Black and Latino consumers. Guided by Fannie Mae Mission Ambassadors, learn more about the research that underpins the Consumer Housing Journey as well as housing and financial resources developed to help remove barriers to equitable and sustainable housing.

Habitat for Humanity

The "Black Homeownership Matters" exhibit, launched at the 2024 Habitat for Humanity Affiliate Conference in Atlanta, is an interactive art installation that tells the story of housing discrimination in the United States and describes the need for collective action to reduce racial inequities in the housing sector. The exhibit, designed in partnership with Godspeed, a Black owned communications firm, was visited and praised by Dr. Bernice King, the daughter of Martin Luther King Jr., and will be featured in cities across the country.
